

FOR PUBLIC RELEASE

April 4, '08

Dear brother in Christ,

It was quite wonderful, to have spoken with you and most pleasant was your cheerful voice. Gladly able to comprehend that you are okay so far, besides the unresolved obstacles. Considering my self a very lucky grandpa, with my 4 grand children always keeping me company.

As you well know, no one in this world will ever understand that we are strongly connected as spirited brothers. The physical world, o' well – there is politics, there is back stabbing and the very truth is a great expensive commodity.

I listen and deep inside of me, I always talk to my sensible heart: “ I don't care – I don't care and I don't give a reasonable “Fuck” – a cheap dominator in language. It is for me now, better not to say anything and always to be agreeable with the “I” syndrome people. There is more of them, then there is one of you or I.

I am sending you a watercolor painting as titled, it is better to be pissed off then pissed on. This letter, my philosophical thought and 4 school pictures of my 4 grandkids. The two girls are Robert's children and then from Zachary and Alexis.

Well brother I need to end this letter, as there is no good news. Write me when you are in town and we will enjoy a breakfast or dinner in a restaurant. Hope to see you soon and will discuss our plans for doing things together. Much love and keep cheers in your heart. The road to recovery for both of us is steep and full of obstacles.

Please don't tell it on the discussion groups of the net. I have many of my students watching the gossip columns. Always your spirited brother,

Willem
